[DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN]

EASTERN DATES TO MARCH 18.

EUROPE.

Germans Evacuating French Cities

LONDON, March 16—A dispatch from Havre to day says the evacuation of Dieppe and surrounding country by the Germans is completed.

A number of Germans purchased a piece of ground at Bougeval, in the arrondissement of Versailles, for the purpose of burying their dead countrymen who have been temporarily buried in the vicinity.

Precautionary measures are adopted by the French authorities against the communication of infection to people and soldiers from unburied corpses, and also against the spread of rinderpest among cattle.

Results of the London Conference

LONDON, March 16—The Journal des Debats, commenting on the result of the Conference on the Eastern question, makes a bitter attack on England, and declares that she lost every advantage gained by the Crimean war. France is now helpless—her sword broken; but when it is unsheathed again its arm will not be so distant as Turkey. Other Paris journals speak of England in a similar spirit.

It is reported that August Pierre will be Prefect of the Seine.

The Count of Paris renounces any intention to compete with other Princes of the royal house of France for the throne.

The French Cabinet has decided to continue the policy of conciliation toward the malcontents at Montmartre. The weather is very bad and the insurgents are scattering. It is thought those who hold their ground will soon yield.

Statement from a Russian Standpoint.

ST PETERSBURG March 16—The Government organ says that notwithstanding newspaper invectives, the Powers interpreted Gortschakoff's demand as reasonable and upright. The result of the Conference involves no unjust sacrifice of rights, removes distrust and pledges peace.

Dispatches via London.

LONDON, March 17—The journals unanimously deprecate violence to Germans returning to France.

Orleans has been evacuated.

It is rumored that Prussia has offered to sell Mulhausen for 200 000 000 francs.

Charles Hugo is dead.

Emperor William has arrived at Wiemer. He was met by the Duke at Eisenach, and by the Duchess at Wiemer Station.

A Times special, dated Paris, March 16, says the Government attempted to night to surprise thirty cannon in the Place de la Vosges. A company of Nationals there were promised help, but it was refused.

Ten trains daily have run to Versailles during the Assembly. One hundred seats in the Assembly are vacant.

Faidherbe, though ill, submits to the plan of reorganization.

Rentes are bought extensively to sustain national credit in view of the new loan. Merchants protest against a law touching commercial bills.

The Prussians returned 12 000 chassepots.

It is rumored that England asks Belgium to explain her neglect and delay in commercial intercourse.

Robert Chambers, the well known publisher of Edinburgh, died to-day.

The Empress and Prince Imperial are at Dover to meet the Emperor, who is expected to day.

Italian Affairs.

FLORENCE, March 16.—The Finance Minister is explaining for the non presentation of the Budget. It is said the total deficit was two hundred and seventy millions. He proposed to augment bank notes one hundred and fifty millions, and increase takes one tenth.

The Italian Parliament will meet at Rome in July to vote on the Budget. Bills will then be introduced to abolish differential duties and for the better maintenance of the peace.

Mr. Seward in India.

CALCUTTA March 17—Seward left yesterday, going to Bombay, the guest of the officials. His health is excellent.

Dispatches from Brussels

BRUSSELS, March 17—Belgian journals profess ignorance of the cause for England's complaint in regard to the interruption of commerce, and the neglect of the Belgian Government to prevent them.

Belgian reports say that the damage to the wheat crop will not be so general as asserted. In some provinces the prospect is satisfactory.

An Old Soldier.

ST PETERSBURG, March 17—The Invalide Russe publishes a letter recently sent to the Czar by Emperor William, who says "To day, at the review near Paris, I remembered when our united armies were approaching Paris after hard fighting under the Emperor Alexander and the King of Prussia." The letter also expresses the pleasure of his Majesty at the acceptance by the Czar of a coloneley in the First Prussian Guards.

Later Dispatches from Paris

PARIS, March 17—The situation in Montmartre is unchanged. No acts of violence have yet been committed. Demonstrations in the Place de Bastile continue.

The Council of Ministers is occupied with the appointment of Prefects and the Municipal Council.

The Paris Gaulois says the Dutch bankers offered to advance France two million francs after raising the siege.

General Vinoy has addressed a severe circular to the Generals commanding the Army of Paris.

PARIS, March 18—The Government is considering maratime and mercantile law. The first question treated is the excess of taxes on bonded goods, and revision of navigation laws.

McMahon and General Cremieux are in Paris.

The army is rapidly organizing. It is mostly armed to day. The suppression of the Montmartre insurrection is contemplated.

Emperor William in Berlin.

BERLIN, March 17—The Emperor has arrived and the city is illuminated in his honor. The Emperor, Empress, and Crown Prince and Princess drive through the streets to night.

Comments on the London Conference.

PARIS, March 17—The Journal Officiel comments on the treaty concluded by the London Conference on the Eastern question and says all the Powers displayed a willingness to solve the Euxine question, and all must rejoice at this act of diplomacy, which has violated no rights and sacrificed none, but has restored rights, removed mistrust and consolidated good relations. The act is one of peace and right.

LONDON, March 17—Protocols of the proceedings on the Black Sea question to be laid on the table of the House of Commons to night, are signed by Plenipotentiaries of seven Powers represented there. The general features are conciliatory in tone on the part of Russia and shows a willingness on the part of Turkey to accept the denentralization of the Black Sea and deference of the conference to the wishes of either Power.

The conference met January 17th. Lord Granville was chosen President. He regretted the absence of the Plenipotentiary from France and declared that the object of the Conference was to examine the Black Sea question without partisanship and to discuss with perfect liberality Russia's proposals for a revision of the treaty of Paris.

Baron Brunno made a statement which contained no trace of the imperative tone of Gortschakoff's circular. His speech was most conciliatory throughout, and was responded to in the same spirit by the Turkish Plenipotentiary.

The Conference then went to work on a declaration to the effect that the Plenipotentiaries recognize as an essential principle of the right of nations that no Power can shake off engagements of treaty or modify its stipulations, except with the consent of the contracting parties. On this point a friendly understanding was arrived at, and on March 15th the Duke de Broglie gave his adhesion to it.

The second meeting took place on January 24th, when Brunno more fully stated that changes had taken place since 1856, and urged that all treaties be judged by considerations arising in the time intervening. He concluded that the treaty of Paris really perpetuated irritations by wounding Russia's national sentiment.

The Turkish Ambassador combatted the arguments of the Russian Ambassador, and [illegible] that Turkey was fully satisfied with the [illegible] but if other Powers thought it right to admit the Russian demand on that Government and would give guarantees equivalent and compatible with the right and security of the Ottoman Empire he was authorized to concur.

Other Plenipotentiaries, while recognizing the justice of the Turkish objections, adhered to their former expression that the Turkish consent must be devoid of equivalents.

At the third sitting, February 3d four treaty articles were proposed by Lord Granville. The second article gave to Turkey power to introduce ships of war of the non riverian Powers into the Black Sea only if compelled to do so for the security of the Ottoman Empire.

Monsourious Pacha objected to the phrase "non riverian," as restrictive to Turkey and offensive to Russia.

A long debate, generally in opposition, followed—the representative of the Turkish Government pleading his instructions as very peremptory. At the same meeting the secondary resolution of the Danube Commission was first mooted, and agreed to.

At the fourth meeting, February 7th, no instructions had been received by the representatives and nothing done.

At the fifth meeting, February 13th, the Duke de Boglie was introduced. He declared that the French Government saw no sufficient reason to modify the treaty of Paris, but now accepted the arrangement which had been partially concluded.

The Italian Minister proposed a new article, in which the words "friendly and allied Powers" were substituted for "non-riverian Powers." This amendment was adopted freely by Turkey and other Powers. There were no differences on the other articles. After their completion, the Turkish and Russian representatives announced that they were authorized to conclude a Convention abrogating the stipulations of the treaty of Paris relative to the number and strength of their respective fleets in the Black Sea.

WASHINGTON, CITY

The New Loan

WASHINGTON, March 17.—The subscriptions to the loan to-day foot up to two and a quarter millions.

The Joint High Commission.

WASHINGTON, March 16—The Joint High Commission was in session yesterday.

Secretary Fish was present at the Cabinet meeting but did not remain until conclusion, transacting business relating to the State Department and then retiring to be present at the deliberation of the Commission.

In addition to the preparation of a large mail which was to be taken to New York by four or to the British Legation for the Foreign Office in London, members of the British Commission devoted several hours to social duties, and among other visits, attending on Tuesday afternoon the reception of Mrs Grant at the Executive mansion. To morrow and Friday evening the English Commissioners will entertain a number of friends at their residences.

Reported Change in the Pension Office

WASHINGTON, March 17—There is good reason to believe that the present Commissioner of Pensions will be removed at an early day. The position will be tendered to a Pennsylvanian, but the person is not yet designated. Ex Representative Gilfillan and Assistant Commissioner Douglas, of the Internal Revenue, are names most prominently mentioned.

Congressional.

WASHINGTON, March 16—In the Senate to day Stewart, from the Committee on Pacific Railroads, reported a bill amendatory of the act incorporating the Texas Pacific Railroad, allowing the Arkansas branch to connect with the Texas Pacific Railroad.

Casserly introduced a bill providing for the appointment by the President of three commissioners, two of whom shall be engineers, to examine and report upon the Sutro Tunnel in Nevada, with special reference to the importance, feasibility, cost and time required to construct the same; also, the value of bullion extracted from mines in the Comstock lode and their present and probable future production, also the geographical and practical value of said tunnel as an exploring work, and its general bearing upon our mining and other national interests in ascertaining the practicability of deep mining, passed.

In the House, Kelly of Pennsylvania, called attention to a circular laid on members' desks this morning, addressed the Republicans of the House and signed by Butler, in which it is charged that the revenue was raised by a combination of high tariff Republicans with Democrats, there existing. He denied this, and declared it was the high tariff Republicans. He appealed to the journal to prove his votes in the House yesterday were consistent with those of Butler.

Butler disclaimed reference to Kelly, who always voted in accordance with his obligations, but reaffirmed the statement in the circular that the resolution for a committee was put through by high tariff Republicans to avoid legislation on the tariff.

Peters said the vote showed that 58 Republicans had voted for and 50 against the resolution.

A warm discussion ensued between Butler and Speaker Blaine who wrote the resolution proposing a Select Committee, and took the floor to assail Butler.

WASHINGTON, March 17—The Senate resolution of Anthony, for a joint committee, consisting of five Senators and seven Representatives, and in other respects is the same as the resolution for a committee of investigation adopted by the House. Anthony explained that his resolution would provide for a joint investigation committee, upon which both Houses would be represented instead of a special committee of one branch, as proposed by the House. Senators on both sides of the chamber would, of course, be represented on the committee. At the suggestion of Trumbull, Anthony modified his suggestion by an increase of the number of Senators on the committee to seven, and the number of Representatives to nine, and including the former members of the present Senate Committee to investigate Southern affairs. The resolution was then adopted.

Rice, from the Committee on Mines and Mining, reported, without amendment, a bill to define and protect the rights of miners and to encourage the development of mines.

The Senate, in executive session to day, confirmed the nominations of W. H. Chesborough, of New York, as Assistant Secretary of Legation to London; Decris (?) made Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Montana Territory; William McMichael, as Internal Revenue Collector; Walter H. Smith, Assistant Attorney General of the United States; Edwin Ellis, Indian Agent for Washington Territory; Charles A. Cook, as Receiver of the District of Colorado.

A caucus of the Democratic members of the House, this afternoon, adopted a resolution to vote for the Senate joint resolution for a committee of investigation of affairs in the South providing that the committee shall not report before next December. If this proviso shall not be incorporated in the joint resolution by the House, Democrats will be considered free to vote for or against the original form.

EASTERN STATES

The New Hampshire Election

NEW YORK, March 15—The Tribune this morning says the Republicans in New Hampshire, yesterday, seem to have lost the Governor and Congressmen, the Council, and probably the Senate, while the House is only claimed for the Republicans by a majority of from 20 in a body of 300 members. On the vote from 165 towns the Republicans gain on last year's vote 800, while the Democrats gain 3,426, a net Democratic gain of 2,426. The Tribune thinks that New Hampshire has become Democratic. This vote means mainly, if not wholly, Republican apathy and of over confidence and continued triumph of six years and Republican disaffection engendered by local quarrels, liquor, and the untimely Sumner trouble.

The World sums the result in New Hampshire yesterday, as follows: The Democrats have elected Governor and Railroad Commissioners, two certainly, and probably three Congressmen, and a majority of the State Senate. The House is in doubt.

CONCORD, March 15—Election returns this morning come in slowly, and do not materially change the estimates already given. Weston will probably have from 300 to 500 majority. The Third District is in doubt, the vote being close, the returns are not all in, but Parker (Dem) is probably elected.

BOSTON, March 15—The Concord, N. H., Statesman thus sums up the causes of the Republican defeat. Had Charles Sumner not been forced from the chairmanship of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, the Republican vote would have been larger. Had the San Domingo scheme been left to the operation of a natural course instead of being pushed with persistency, it would have been larger. Had Congress succeeded in restoring our commerce to the extent and the importance it had before relied on, it would been larger.

New York Dispatches.

NEW YORK, March 15—The World says: We are reliably informed that infantry, numbering nearly if not upward of 1,000 men, have been held in readiness at Governor's Island, in this State, ever since the San Domingo Commission left, to proceed at once to that Island in the event that the Commissioners should telegraph that Cabral resisted their movements, or in the event that the Haytiens should undertake to interfere with Baez while the Commissioners were on the Island.

NEW YORK, March 18—The letter of Capt. Temple published yesterday morning revealing that President Grant had ordered the Navy to protect the Government of Baez against any demonstrations by Hayti, is confirmed by the official correspondence, which is also [illegible] this morning. This correspondence [illegible] that the Admiral of the port and Minister Bassett had also notified the Haytien Government of the order of the Executive.

The Tribune's Washington special says the Secretary of the Treasury is engaged in perfecting plans for calling in very soon a large amount of 5-20 bonds. How soon this will be [illegible] not yet determined, but it is no secret [illegible] preliminary arrangements are now in course of preparation. SAN DOMINGO

The San Domingo Commission.

PORT AU PRINCE, March 7—The Commission reached here March 2d, all in excellent [illegible]. They will wait here for Commissioner White. The questions of debt and disputed boundary are the most important raised since the last dispatches. The Haytiens are bitterly opposed to annexation. The Commissioners, however, were received civilly. Cabral's strength consists almost entirely of Haytian supports. The mail for the Commission leaves for New York to day. Mr Wade is preparing a short preliminary report, which he hopes to get off on the steamer this evening. He has also sent short letters to the President. Mr Howe had arranged for a pretty thorough exploration of this section of Hayti, but Wade insisted that there was no authority for it, and it should not be done. The second day after our arrival here Wade and Howe called, by previous engagement, upon the President and Cabinet, but the meeting had no special reference to annexation. All the Cabinet were present. Upon being presented Wade said:

Mr. President: We are the Commissioners of the United States, charged with the duty of making certain inquiries touching the state and condition of the Dominican Republic, with a view to the possibility of more intimate relations between the two Republics than has hitherto existed, and having performed that duty, we were reluctant to leave without doing ourselves the honor of calling and paying our respects to the President of the Haytien Republic. We trust the same friendly and amicable relations that have so long animated the people of both sections may long continue. In doing this we but express the sincere sentiments of the President and people of the United States.

President Sagel replied. He gladly reciprocated the sentiments of friendship expressed by Wade, and would do all in his power to aid their researches.

After some informal conversation, Wade [illegible] he greatly regretted not being able to speak in their own language, because he thought he would then be able to say a great deal that would tend to allay the present feeling towards the United States by showing the points in which the Haytiens misunderstood us.

Sagel at this earnestly said the educated class in Hayti fully understood and appreciated the condition of the United States, but a large class remembered the slavery which existed there, and the fact that they had once been slaves, and it was impossible to influence them. The President at the close of the conference, said he would try and visit the Commissioners. He is not expected to-morrow, on account of the general and popular feeling against the presence of the Commissioners in the harbor.

Cabral has sent a communication to the frontier for the Commissioners in answer to a letter written by Mr Howe at Aqua, but the letter is delayed until the Haytien authorities can correspond with the Minister in regard to receiving it. Wade is anxious not to complicate matters by bringing him here, wishing as he does to avoid all appearance of being engaged with Hayti while prosecuting investigations looking to annexation.

KINGSTON (Jamaica), March 16—The U. S. frigate Tennessee, with the San Domingo Commissioners, leaves this morning, and will reach Key West, if she meets with no accident, on Monday or Tuesday next. The U. S. steamer Nantucket does not accompany her, but returns to Samana Bay.

The report of Commissioner Wade is finished. He will go to Washington by the most direct route. The other Commissioners wish to stop at Charleston to write reports. All expressed themselves in favor of annexation. The Commission met with the most cordial reception in Jamaica, and their visit here has strengthened them in their views, and there is a strong sentiment in Jamaica favorable to annexation to the the United States.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 20, 1871.

Party Tendencies.

Political parties have certain tendencies which continually appear in the declarations of those who speak for them, and which cannot be disguised or concealed. Democratic utterances which are heard every day fully prove that that party is still firmly attached to the doctrines held when Mr. Buchanan was President. Then it accepted the Confederate idea that the Union of the States could not be maintained by force; that the Government had no constitutional power to enforce its authority and perpetuate itself; that it was an infamous blow at the rights of the States to resort to coercion for the purpose of defeating and subduing the secession movement, and that the so-called Confederate States had withdrawn from the Union in pursuance of their undoubted constitutional right. This was the burden of General Lane's last speech in the Senate; and for uttering that speech, a speech which was fully in consonance with the Democratic ideas of the time, the organ of that party in Oregon has recently lauded him and expressed the hope that Senator Kelly would make the Senate chamber ring again with the same arguments in behalf of the "constitutional rights of the States"? [illegible] Democratic organs defend the course of Buchanan and his Administration they show beyond question that the views of their party are fully in accord with the doctrines of the seceders, or, what comes to the same thing, with the doctrines of those who held it unconstitutional to resist secession. This dangerous doctrine is planted deeply in the Democratic mind. It is accepted in a greater or less degree by nine-tenths of the Democratic party. This fact cannot but be observed by all observing men. It is chiefly because of this tendency of the Democratic party that its accession to power would be dangerous to the country. If the Northern States permit the triumph of that party they will virtually confess to the Southern States that they were in the wrong when they forced them back into the Union.

Again, there is another tendency of that party which cannot but be generally observed. The utterances of those who speak for it show that it is the purpose of that party, in case it obtains power, to overthrow the whole fabric of reconstruction. It does not regard the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments in any other light than as "unconstitutional, null and void." It holds that the reconstruction measures are no part of the law of the land. The work that has been done is to be endured, as it boldly says, only until a Democratic President, with the army at his command, has the opportunity of destroying it. Thus reaction and revolution are impending and the peace of the country is menaced, even by the attempt of this party to gain power. Reconstruction is not beyond the range of political discussion, nor are any of the questions which produced the war or which have grown out of it. The Presidential campaign next year will be fought substantially on old issues. The attitude of the Democratic party makes this necessary.

Moral Maxims, with Illustrations.

The leading article in the "State organ" on Sunday was a pious preachment against corrupt combinations between political parties or politicians and moneyed corporations. We quote this moral maxim:

> No party can, with safety to itself, become involved with any private moneyed interest, nor run the taint of its being used and controlled by such interest [illegible] but to its own ultimate injury.

How is it in the case of a political newspaper, the organ of a party, which "becomes involved with a moneyed interest," to the extent say of $500, which sum it receives as an inducement to defend the perpetration of a robbery of $75,000? Is there any "taint" about that? We quote again from the "organ":

> No man can serve two masters, and hence if there be any reasonable grounds for suspicion that a politician is acting in the peculiar interest of any man or corporation, the sagacious masses of any healthy organization will cast about for any man not so entrammelled with whom to repose positions of public honor and confidence.

Might this not apply also as well to a paper which acts in the peculiar interest of a corporation, and exacts the sum of $500 for the service? Is it not to be anticipated that the "sagacious masses of a healthy organization" will "cast about" for a paper "not so entrammelled" in which their confidence may be more worthily reposed? We continue to cite these useful moral reflections:

> Nor is the evil effect of any such indiscreet combination any less notable with individuals than with parties.

Is it any less notable with a newspaper? Suppose an "indiscreet combination" be made between the leading organ of a party and a great corporation, by which the former gets $500 for assisting the schemes of the latter—what of the "evil effect" in such a case as that? But to proceed to the maxims before us:

> And this fate, which thus overtakes these public men who thus strike hands secretly with the men, and thus divide their allegiance, is nothing less than just, and augurs that a spirit of good and honesty still pervades the people.

This makes us tremble for the fate that is to overtake a certain "organ" that "struck hands with a corporation, and held its grip on $500 in its palm which it carried to the bank. Nor are our apprehensions in any way relieved when we read the following:

> When the taint of suspicion rests upon any individual, that he is in even a remote degree the instrument of any of these large corporations, it is invariably to his injury and defeat."

Which fills us with deep concern for the future of a certain organ which has "been used as an instrument" of one of "these large corporations," and received its reward therefor in molten coin, to the extent of $500. But we must close these moral readings, and we close with the following:

> The great masses of the party are opposed to any league, alliance or servitude to such moneyed interests, and if any members of that party, in an ill-advised moment, tamper with the unclean abominations, they do it to their own injury alone.

Come, now! It was an "ill-advised moment," then, when the organ of the Oregon Democracy "tampered with one of these unclean abominations" for the petty sum of $500? Much good may it do the "organ" to come to the confessional in this manner! Now let it show that its repentance is sincere by giving back the $500 to the corporation with which it "struck hands," and by denouncing the robbery which it has heretofore been defending.

The President of the Oregon and European Land Company, under whose auspices the German immigration is to come to Oregon, is Jos. S. Wilson, late Commissioner of the General Land Office. We learn that he is now in San Francisco. He is an excellent man for the position and will do much to make the great enterprise successful.

A Successful "Crack"—The "Herald's" Share of the Plunder.

The zeal of the Herald in behalf of the canal and locks swindle is now fully explained. It got $500 for it. This was the sum paid it by members of the company for advocating and defending their scheme. We are warranted in stating this with positiveness, from the fact that the Herald has not dared to deny the charge, which therefore may now be taken as an established and admitted fact. The very best that can be said of the odious transaction which the Herald received $500 for supporting, is that it takes from the people $75,000 more than would have secured the construction of the locks; in other words, it is a direct robbery of the people to that amount. In this view of the case we say nothing about the fact that the school fund ought to have been left untouched, and the wrongfulness of the act by which it was violated. The point we urge now is that a subsidy of $200,000 was granted when $125,000 would have sufficed. For supporting this precious scheme of robbery the Herald received $500. That seems to have been its share of the plunder. And of course this $500 which the Herald has received for its zeal in behalf of this scheme comes from the people's money chest. The "ring" had $74,500 left out of the proceeds of their "crack," after subsidizing the Herald. Thus the people have been forced to pay for the luxury of being swindled.

Quite Another Thing.

Some of the ring organs are trying to break the force of the accusation that is made against the authors of the iniquitous job by which $75,000 has been stolen from the people and given to a corporation composed mainly of prominent Democratic politicians, by stating that a similar measure was passed in 1868 and approved by Governor Woods. There is one little difficulty, however:—the act of 1868 was not like the present act. If it was the same, why did the company want this last act? Why were they not content with the first one? Would the members of the company have gone to the last Legislature, worked hard, expended money, subsidized newspapers, and employed all their energies to get an act through that was little or nothing different from the act they had secured already? The fact is they are to get $50,000 more by the present act than they would have received by the old one, and it is to be paid in a very different way. The payment of the subsidy first provided for depended on different conditions from those under which the subsidy is now to be paid. In fact the first act was another thing altogether. We think the Democratic party can be made very sick of the swindle.

A correspondent of the Farmer furnishes an article on the decay of Oregon orchards. This decay he considers inevitable for this reason, viz: "What matures early dies early." "Too heavy crops," he sensibly remarks, "on too young trees, and the propagation from these decayed trees bring ruin to our orchards. If I were to start a nursery again, I would send for seedlings and grafts East, and start anew." He is of opinion, therefore, that Oregon orchards, in decaying early, succumb to an inevitable law of nature, and that no sort of culture of the trees can avert their decay. He states that he has tried every method of cultivation, with a view of reviving drooping trees, but with the same fruitless result. About ten years he considers the average period during which the apple tree in Oregon will grow vigorously and bear fruit. Then it should be renewed. We are satisfied that this theory is the correct one. It accords with facts and experience. The way to keep up our orchards is to plant new trees.

Dispatches say that it is believed in Jamaica that the acquisition of San Domingo by the United States would speedily prepare the way for the acquisition of Hayti also, and very probably of Jamaica. That certainly would be the tendency produced by the success of the San Domingo movement; but while it would probably succeed in the case of Hayti it would hardly be possible in the case of Jamaica, which belongs to Great Britain. That power would hardly let go of so valuable a possession as Jamaica.

"They (State officers) shall receive no fees or perquisites whatever for the performance of any duties connected with their respective offices." So says the Constitution of Oregon. What says our Democratic Legislature? "The fees of the Secretary of State for carrying out such such portions of this act (act of October 24, 1870) as pertain to the duties of his office shall be as follows." How's that for our strict constructionists of the Constitution?

A French paper says that England by her apathetic and irresolute course has lost all she gained by the Crimean war. That is doubtless true. But she didn't gain much by the Crimean war.

THE TERRITORIES.

Idaho is expecting the arrival of her new Governor, A. H. Connor. He is an Indianian.

The Olympia Tribune says property in that place has not depreciated in value; in Steilacoom it could not depreciate a farthing; in Port Townsend it has advanced in value.

It is said that the mill companies of Puget Sound have formed a combination to advance and sustain the prices of lumber in San Francisco. They have agreed to reduce their shipments one third, and thus avoid glutting the market in future.

The Boise Statesman refers to the meeting held here to organize a movement in behalf of the Salt Lake and Columbia River Railroad, and says: Now that the agitation of this old and well known route has been revived in earnest, it is a good time for the newspapers and the business community of Idaho to join in. We are beginning to be convinced that if we are ever to be brought into railroad communication with the rest of mankind, it will be accomplished through this very Snake river route. The old Oregon overland route is the natural highway, and the bull teams that long ago went creeping over it have pointed the route for the bounding iron horse. But in order to make the movement effective, there ought to be concert of action among all the communities lying along this route.

At Salem on Friday John Brady was sentenced to imprisonment for life in the State Penitentiary, having been found guilty of murder in the second degree for the killing of Wilkins, whom he had never seen before, after the two had been drinking beer together all the afternoon at the Last Chance Saloon, near the Fair Ground. Brady is Irish, Wilkins was English, and their discussion, and a quarrel that arose between them, is said to have been in regard to national differences. After several irritable spells, they finally quit drinking and Brady left, but suddenly returned, and, calling the other an opprobrious name, stabbed him so that he died soon afterwards. We quote from the Statesman.

Dr. Chance, of Salem, makes the following offer through the Farmer: I hereby offer as a special premium at the coming State Fair, for the cleanest, best, neatest and most patched suit of farmer's working clothes, $25 worth of dental work of any kind the winner may desire, either for herself or any person she may designate. Two or more entries to be made. Said suit to consist of coat, pants and vest, or, in place of vest, woolen over-shirt.

Order for the Reduction of the Army.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—A general order issued to-day directs company commanders to report the names of all indifferent soldiers who ought for the good of the service to be discharged and provides for the transfer of men from one company to another, so that on the 1st of July next the aggregate force of the army shall not exceed the 30,000 required by the act of the last session. The New Hampshire Election.

CONCORD, March 18.—The results of the late election as at first reported, remain unchanged. The people failed in electing Weston (Dem.) for Governor by 150 votes. The official count will be required to settle the complexion of the Legislature, on whom devolves the choice for Governor; but the indications are in favor of the Democrats.

A Report Contradicted.

NEW YORK, March 18.—The Evening Post says: We have reason to believe that the Spanish Government has notified Great Britain and other foreign Powers that no proposition has been made to the United States to sell Cuba and Porto Rico to the United States.

WEST INDIES.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 17.—Since the visit of the San Domingo Commissioners popular feeling runs high in favor of the United States. There is an idea here that Jamaica will soon follow San Domingo. The feeling of the Haytien refugees is generally expressed in favor of annexation. They say the value of property in Hayti would increase, and the Haytiens seeing railroads, telegraphs, steamers, roads and a thriving commerce in San Domingo, will soon desire annexation themselves.

The Commissioners before leaving Jamaica visited ex-President Juarford of Hayti.

From the Register of March 18th, we gather that Mr. H. Cartwright has returned from San Francisco, where he purchased all machinery necessary for a lard oil and soap mill.

He heard of these prizes yesterday. One was a gents' shirt, another an infant's dress, and a third a pair of sleeve buttons to match the shirt.

The Albany Democrat says a neck-tie party was held last week in that city and proved a great success. BY

AT

PHILHARMONIC HALL,

TUESDAY & WEDNESDAY EVEN'GS,
March 14th and 23d,

At 7:30 o'clock.

Tickets, $1 00; single admission, 50 cents.

AT THE REQUEST OF SEVERAL GENTLEMEN prominently connected with the Northern Pacific Railroad Company, together with many citizens of Portland, the Rev. Thomas Condon has consented to give TWO LECTURES as above indicated.

Mr. Condon has devoted much of his time and talent to reading up the buried history of Eastern Oregon. So far as the interesting science of Geology (of which he is an enthusiastic student) could aid him, he has done more for Oregon, Geologically, than all others, and to show appreciation for past services as well as to aid him in prosecuting further search, the net proceeds of these Lectures will be for Mr. C.'s sole benefit. Then show your appreciation of honest worth and fill the house to overflowing.

Tickets can be had at the bookstores of S. J. McCormick and Harris & Holman, and at the office of Oregon Steam Navigation Co.

MONDAY MORNING, MARCH 20, 1871.

CITY.

ACCOUCHEMENT—Last Friday evening, during the hours when we are usually engaged in preparing morning news," we were in hospitable (and may say delightful) captivity among the sons of Patrick, at the St Charles Hotel There was no escape for even time to write a three line item till after the great bell in the clock tower called twelve, and thereby told us that St. Patrick's Day had gone where all St Patrick's Days had gone, before it The very natural consequence was that some matters which ought to have received notice, were not mentioned at all, and there were some errors which require correction In the list of toasts, one of the regular was omitted altogether, because another was substituted for it, after the list as at first prepared had gone into type, and we did not know of the alteration till too late. ... respondents to the toasts were not all published correctly "Oregon, the garden of the ... was responded to by Judge W. W. Upton. "The adopted citizens of this Republic," ... Regan. Several volunteer toasts were offered and responded to.

In this connection, the supper served by Mr ... eminently deserves mention The arrangement of the table was very elegant and ... The supper itself, served with wine, embraced every delicacy of the season, and, as the ... say, "everything the market afforded." The cookery was evidently done by a master of the art, and the manner of serving was particularly elegant. Take it altogether we doubt if a richer or more elegant ... was ever spread in this city for so large a number of people Mr. Jacobs has shown himself to be the Prince of caterers. A band composed of professors and teachers, ... was stationed in an adjoining ... and furnished music at intervals during the supper and in honor of each regular toast.

Just before the eve of the retirement at twelve ... of the invited guests, Mr. McCormick, ... offered a resolution to meet again on ... and each succeeding anniversary of St. Patrick's Day, which was adopted with perfect unanimity and great enthusiasm.

A CURIOUS CONVICTION FOR SELLING WHISKY—The jury in the case of the United States vs. J. Halbert, indicted for selling liquor at retail without paying license, came in late Friday evening with a verdict of "guilty" The punishment in these cases cannot be less than six months imprisonment and a fine of $1,000 The penalty in most of these cases is severe, out of all proportion to the offense The U S tax upon retail liquor dealers is ... a petty sum compared with the ... inflicted for doing business without having paid it. Yet the proof being made that a party has so dealt in liquors, the jury as sworn ... cannot do otherwise than say "guilty," and the jury having said "guilty," the judge has no option but to pronounce sentence He has given the lowest extreme of punishment, but that ... as we have stated above. It is an enormous ... as compared with the general average of penalties prescribed by law. We have no doubt that it is this fact which has induced the ... of the U S Courts, the prosecuting attorneys and jurors, in so many cases, to petition for the pardon of convicted persons, by the President In the case of James Lanaghan, convicted ... months ago and sentenced to six months' ... and a fine of $1,000, Judge Deady, ... tried him, made direct application to the ... to remit all of the judgment except three months imprisonment, on the ground of the great disproportion of the penalty to the offense. Upon this showing and petition, and other mitigating circumstances, the pardon was granted, and Lanaghan was discharged last ... day. Halbert's term, if the matter goes to ..., will be the same, and it may be fairly presumed that he too will be pardoned after a short term of imprisonment. Thus it may be seen why pardons of this class of offenders have been so frequent The law was enacted at a time when Congress and everybody also were excited and angry about the gross whisky frauds in New York and a few other places and now that the ... for it is passed, it should be materially modified—so that the courts might have ... a reasonable discretion as to punishment.

... MUSICAL INSTITUTE.—The pupils of the second division of this flourishing Institution passed their first examination at Philharmonic Hall, on Saturday afternoon, and nearly all the pupils did so well that they were transferred to the ... division, and are now entitled to the blue ... which they will receive to-day and tomorrow The third division, which is to be organized to-day will hereafter be known as the second division. Another division will be formed ... The following is the list of names ... advanced to the first division, on Saturday ... Bertha Kahan, Josey Nowell, Jane Baudrie, Maleta Barnes, Thomas Norton, ... Joseph Ladd, Augustus Linton, John Walton, Charles Malarkey, Thomas O'Connor Charles Kahan, John Malarkey, ... John Fitzpatrick, Daniel Malarkey, Ralph Hoyt, Sarah Middleton, Sophie Wormser, ... A FINE DAY.—Hallelujah! We have had one ... a somewhat high and ... wind, a glorious day. That was yesterday and we wish to be distinctly understood as ... of yesterday, and that we hazard nothing as to what may be to-day. The people, delighted to get out once more and to be able to ... toward the sweet heavens, without an umbrella flashed out upon the sidewalks—papas, mammas and bairns, lovers and lassies, bummers and ..., crowds of all sorts—and promenaded up and down, north and south, east and west and seemed never to tire of walking A stranger arriving by balloon and popping down ... would have imagined that he had ... the midst of a gala day, so fine were ... and so gay the apparel displayed by ... population.

... ITEMS.—The bark Stella, from this port ..., at anchor off Fort Stevens, awaiting favorable weather to go to sea.

While the steam tug was towing the bark Whistler ... one day last week, against a heavy sea, the tug hawser parted, and the bark had a narrow escape from being driven ashore. The recoil of the hawser (a very heavy one) carried away some of the vessel's forward rigging.

It is ... that the brig Madawaska will be ready ... as soon as a complement of seamen shall arrive from San Francisco. They are expected ... the next steamer.

A REVOLTING CASE.—We heard several days ago of a most revolting case in Washington ... of an attempt by a man of somewhat advanced years, to commit rape upon a little girl of only about five years. At that time an officer was in the city in search of the offender, who was ... to have fled here, and the matter was therefore not mentioned. We are now informed that the man whose name is Blanchard, as we remember it, was arrested at Lafayette, and was ... examination at Hillsboro, on Friday, when the stage left for this place. Of the result we have no information

SALEM.—Messrs Myrick & Dodge having to vacate the Armory of the Washington Guard for the ... Benevolent Society's ball on the ... concluded to not reopen till their own new building at corner of A and Fourth street, would be ready for occupancy Meantime, they will have Reed's Opera House at Salem open as a skating rink They will open at that place tonight. The Salem folks, if they want "fun ...," can find it by visiting and trying the rollers.

THE IDAHO.—The steamship Idaho which sailed on Saturday from San Francisco for this port, has 46 cabin and 156 steerage passengers, and 700 tons of freight. This is quite a large passenger and freight list, and indicates the opening of a ... this spring

ACCOUNTED FOR.—Last week a man named ... was said to be missing mysteriously, It is now said that he has been heard from He went down the river on one of the morning boats and got off at Kalnier or near there

THE RIVER.—The Willamet holds up to within a few inches of the highest stage reached this ... There is now no drift of consequence ..., and a considerable decline immediately ... probable

THE NEXT STEAMER.—The N. P. T Co's steamship Idaho, sailed on Saturday from San ... for Portland, with a full cargo and large passenger list. She will be due about tomorrow night.

GOING FORWARD.—Preparations for the wharf and depot at North Portland, are going forward as fast as the weather will permit.

AMUSEMENTS.

ORO FINO THEATER.—Upon the first production of the stirring drama of "Ireland as it is," on Friday evening, the theater was crowded to excess, not even standing room being possible, while a great many had to be actually turned away at the door. The next evening the play was repeated and the house was again crowded, so that the aisles were occupied by extra chairs. Mrs Bates personated Judy O'Trot, a wild sort of Irish woman, in a style of make-up and acting so new to her as to render it quite original and very laughable. She was quite the hero of the piece, and was applauded rapturously again and again Mr. Vinson's Old O'Carrolan was a most artistic and affecting piece of acting The Ragged Pat of Miss Minnie Pixley was hardly up to her standard in characters of that sort She seemed occasionally careless whether she played well or not Miss Annie Pixley's Honour was sprightly and engaging. Miss Ingles did herself credit in the character of Mons Voyage, and Miss Cummings having in a devil may care boy character made a good personation The melange which followed was a series of first rate performances by the Pixleys, Coghill and Cooper and Cook, in their specialties The same bill for tonight.

BALL AT KALAMA.—The first ball on the site of the new railroad city will take place at the "Riverside Restaurant"—at Kalama—next Thursday evening Arrangements have been made to have the steamer Vancouver go down on that day, and the Dixie Thompson from Astoria, to lay up over night at Kalama, to accommodate those who may wish to go from this city or way points, to attend the ball.

THE COURTS.

SATURDAY, March 18, 1871.

U. S. DISTRICT COURT—DEADY, J—The United States vs J Lanaghan, in confinement under sentence of this court, upon presentation by the United States Attorney of a pardon by the President of the United States, it was ordered that the prisoner be discharged.

The cause of the United States vs the schooner Louisa Simpson, was continued until Saturday next.

United States vs Andrew Wiley—demurrer to the indictment was overruled The Court held that an allegation that the defendant gave and disposed of spirituous liquor to an Indian under charge of the Indian Agent in charge of the Indian Agency at Grand Ronde, was sufficient

The United States vs John Brown—Demurrer to first count of the indictment was sustained, as to the second count, overruled Held that an allegation that the defendant gave, bartered or disposed of spirituous liquor to an Indian, etc., was void for repugnancy, it being impossible that the same liquor could be both given and bartered, at the same time, to the same Indian.

The United States vs. William Wallace—indictment as a retail dealer of liquor without paying a tax—jury trial Verdict of the jury, "Not guilty," and the defendant ordered discharged

The Court adjourned till Monday, 20th, at 10 A. M.

FOURTH CIRCUIT COURT—UPTON, JUDGE—The following suits were dismissed at the cost of the plaintiffs, the matters therein enumerated having been settled to the satisfaction of the parties, being for the purpose of quieting titles to real estate in the city.

Emma S Lamb et al vs Annie Nealey, E F Russell, Julia Stinson, F. Brown, A. P. Ankeny and V Cooke, tenants, and also D. Monastes and George Pratt.

Ida Squires vs the same parties

Millard O Lowensdale et al vs the same parties.

Decrees were entered for conferring titles to plaintiffs in the following causes

Henry W. Corbett vs the heirs of Daniel A Lownsdale, deceased.

M. Rosenblatt vs. the same parties

M. Ahern vs the same parties

Amanda Landreth vs. W. F Landreth, suit for divorce, cause referred to M. P Bull to take testimony and report facts.

L L Fook vs L Besser—suit to require the specific performance of a contract, judgment was entered in favor of the defendant for costs

Jacob Kline vs. Emma S Lamb et al—suit to quiet title Order was made for the publication of summons.

H. C. Dray vs. O. Crich—writ of review. The motion for review was sustained, and cause remanded to lower court for trial.

The Court adjourned till Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Exuberant Health

Is a blessing vouchsafed to few Even those who have been favored by nature with strong constitutions and vigorous frames are apt to neglect the precaution necessary to preserve these precious endowments Indeed, as a rule, the more healthy a man is, the more liberties he is inclined to take with his own physique It is some consolation to the naturally weak and feeble to know that they can be so invigorated and built up by a proper use of the means which science has placed at their disposal, as to have a much better chance of long life and exemptions from disease and pain, than the most athletic of their fellows who are foolish enough to suppose themselves invulnerable and act accordingly

It is not too much to say that more than half the people of the civilized world need an occasional tonic, to enable them to support the strain upon their bodies and minds, which the fast life of this restless age occasions, In fact, a pure wholesome, unexciting tonic is the grand desideratum of the busy millions and they have the article in Hostetter's Stomach Bitters It is a staminal medicine, ... it imparts permanent strength to weak systems and invigorates delicate constitutions Its reputation and its sales have steadily increased Competitive preparations have been introduced ad libitum, and, as far as the public is concerned, ad nauseum, in the hope of rivaling it, but they have all either perished in the attempt, or been left in the rear It has been the great medical success of the present century, and it is quite certain that no proprietary medicine in this country is so widely known or as generally used.

Ten lightning presses, running incessantly (Sunday excepted) the whole year through, barely supply the demand for the Illustrated Almanac in which the nature and uses of the preparation are set forth, the circulation now being over eight millions a year

BY FATHER HYACINTHE.

A friend sends us the following with this statement: "The enclosed letter of Hyacinthe is one of the significant 'signs of the times,' and I hope you will find space to publish it at an early day." We therefore give it a place in our columns; but it is not within our scope to express any opinion or enter into any discussion upon the matters to which it relates:

ROME, ABSENT IN BODY, PRESENT IN SPIRIT,
Christmas, 1870.

When war broke out, like that thunderbolt [illegible] over the Vatican at the promulgation of the impious dogma, I hastened to [illegible] protest. This duty fulfilled, I [illegible] I waited to see the sweeping [illegible] the chaff which the wind driveth away, [illegible] absolutisms which, sometimes in [illegible] language, sometimes in hostility, had [illegible] oppressed both the Church and [illegible] the Empire of the Napoleons and [the] temporal power of the Popes. The [illegible] of the infallibility movement have not [illegible] the religious silence to which so [many] souls have restrained themselves, and [illegible] they above all others ought to have [illegible] warning that audacious policy which with one stroke has accomplished both [its] triumph and ruin, they busy themselves [with] [illegible] calculations upon the more or less prudent reserve of some, the more or less constrained adherence of others. Such a misunderstanding cannot longer be kept up; it would be wrong not to oppose what would otherwise result in establishing falsehood by prescriptive right.

The political catastrophe, which, especially [for] Frenchmen, seemed at first to reason for silence, becomes, if truly apprehended, an urgent motive for speaking and acting. I do not hesitate to say it, the question which at [this] very moment takes precedence of all others in France is the religious question. France cannot do without Christianity; and as she cannot accept Christianity under the forms of oppression and corruption with which it has been disguised. Therefore it is that she, even more than the Latin races in general, has been forced to live without religion and consequently without moral power, between Ultramontanism and Infidelity, two [illegible] of which she has [illegible] too slight account, and against [illegible] not less, certainly [illegible] against those who have invaded [illegible].

Suffer me, then [illegible] of the [illegible] my country and the [illegible] my Church, to address the Catholic [bishops] of the whole world, and especially those of them who look upon the situation as I [do] myself, and who [illegible] my own knowledge are not few. Who am I that I should speak to them so boldly? But the illustrious [illegible] has not hesitated to declare that in times of crisis the humblest woman has the right to convoke the Œcumenical Council and save the Church Universal. I assume the right; I perform this duty. I conjure the bishops to put an end to that latent schism which is separating us by abysses the depth of which is more fearful as it is more [un]perceived.

Above all, we need to be told by them whether [the] [decrees] of the late Council are to command our faith or no. In an assembly, the primary conditions of which are absolute liberty of discussion and moral unanimity of suffrage, bishops respectable by reason of their number and by their eminence in learning and in character, openly and repeatedly complained of all manner of restrictions put upon their liberty, and finally refused to take part in the vote. Is it possible that returning to their [illegible], and waking as it were from a long dream, they have acquired the retrospective certainty of having really enjoyed, while at Rome that moral independence of which they were not conscious at the time? The supposition is an insult. We are not dealing here with one of those mysteries [illegible] above reason, but simply with a fact of so [illegible]. To change one's mind in a matter of this sort would not be to submit one's reason to authority, it would be to sacrifice one's conscience.

Now, if this be so, we are still free, after, as before the Council, to reject the infallibility of the Pope, as a doctrine unknown to ecclesiastical antiquity and having its foundations only in apocryphal documents, upon which criticism has pronounced beyond all appeal.

We are still free to say openly, loyally, that we do not accept the late Encyclicals and the Syllabus, [illegible] their most intelligent defenders are constrained to interpret in opposition to their natural meaning, and to the known [illegible] the result of which, if this were to be taken in earnest would be to produce a settled radical incompatibility between the duties of a faithful Catholic and those of an impartial scholar and a free citizen.

[These] are the most salient points at which the [illegible] has been affected. It is the right of every Catholic who cares for the integrity and the dignity of his faith, of every priest who has at heart the loyalty of his ministry, to interrogate the bishops on these points; and it is their duty to answer without reservation and without artifice. Reservation and artifice, these have been our ruin. It is high time to restore in our Church the ancient sincerity in religion which has so decayed among us.

But, mark it well, the facts and doctrines which I have pointed out are connected with a great system, and to reach the details, the [illegible] must penetrate the whole. The question is aggravated by the very excesses of the Ultramontanes, and from this time forth the issue is to be this, whether or not the nineteenth century is to have its Catholic Reformation, as the sixteenth had its Protestant Reformation?

Look, O bishops, upon the bride of Jesus Christ, [illegible] you also have espoused, the Holy Church, pierced, like him, with five wounds!

The first, the wound in the right hand—the [illegible] holds the light [is] the hiding of th[e] [illegible]. That sacred volume, [illegible] to enlighten and to [illegible] up again in the [illegible] and under the [illegible]. The bread of [illegible] God had prepared [illegible] for the wise and [illegible] taken from them? It [illegible] the abuse of [illegible]. Put the Book in its true relation with science, by an intelligent exegesis, and they will have nothing to fear from each other. Put it in its true relation with the people, by a religious education worthy of itself and of them, and the Bible will become the safest guide of the people's life, the healthiest inspiration of their worship.

The wound in the other hand is the oppression of intellect and conscience by the abuse of hierarchal power. Of a truth, Jesus Christ said to his apostles: "Go, teach all nations." but he said also to them: "The princes of the world exercise dominion over them, but it shall not be so among you!" [illegible] of the apostles, make haste to unbind from our shoulders that burden which neither our fathers have been able to bear, and restore that light and easy yoke to which we are invited by the love of the Redeemer.

And what shall I say of the spear wound in the heart? I must call it by its name, for they who suffer most from it are those who shrink most from speaking of it—it is celibacy, the more pleasing to God as it is free and joyous, like the love that inspires it—the portion of a few souls called to it and sustained in it by an exceptional grace. But when it is extended indiscriminately over natures the most unlike and the most unfit, when it is imposed as an irrevocable oath upon their inexperience and enthusiasm, celibacy becomes an institution without mercy, and too often [illegible]. The nations who look upon it as the exclusive ideal of perfection [illegible] contempt upon the [illegible] of the wedded life and [illegible] the family in comparison with the cloister, they reduce it to a mere refuge for vulgar or, at best, for earthly [souls]. The domestic hearth becomes no longer an altar!

But the last wounds of the Church, that cripple her feet when she would rest upon the earth, are these: Worldly policy and superstitious piety. A policy the Church must have, for it stands in necessary relations with the powers of this world; but that policy is most completely expressed in the words of the Master: "I, if I be lifted up above the earth, will draw all men unto me." Is this that policy of the temporal power and the secular arm which makes the possession of some provinces in Italy and some privileges in Europe the essential condition of the empire of souls, the pivot of the whole spiritual structure? A policy as fatal to the Church and the world as the revolution which it subserves even while it is contesting it. A policy the impotent, blind persistency in which it is now desired to exalt to the dignity of a dogma! On the other hand, there is no lack of spiritual force in modern Catholicism. It counts its devout souls by myriads; it sees the noblest works and virtues flourishing within its pale. Why is this piety so touching and so genuine, too often handed over to the seductions of a mysticism without depth, and an asceticism without austerity—so different from those that shed grandeur on the early Christian centuries? External practices—material practices, I had almost said—are multiplied without limit; the adoration of the saints, especially of the Holy Virgin are developed in proportions, and under a character which are alien to genuine Catholic feeling; and that worship of the Father in spirit and in truth, which Jesus made the soul of his religion, is sensibly diminishing amongst us.

Such is the body of Christ, in the state to which our sins have brought it on the earth—sins of the priests, as much and more than those of the people. O, bishops, will you have no pity on it? Will you not give it some efficacious remedy? "Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there?"

I pause. My heart is so burdened that I cannot go on. I know not what shall become of my poor words amid the shock of empires and the voice of blood going up from fields of carnage. But I know this, that if it be not strong enough to speed the accomplishment of God's designs, it is faithful to declare them.

And this, too, I know: that I do not separate myself from the holy Catholic faith, nor from the Church of my baptism and priesthood. If her venerated chiefs shall heed my humble appeal, I shall resume at once, in obedience and in honor and loyalty, a ministry which has been the sole [illegible] of my youth, the sole ambition of my life, and which nothing but my conscience could have forced me painfully to relinquish. If, on the contrary, they answer me only by their reprobation or their silence, I shall not suffer this to disturb me in my love for a Church that is greater than those who govern it, stronger than those who defend it. Holding fast by the heritage left me by my fathers, and not to be rent from me by unjust and, therefore, invalid excommunications, I will give to the preparation of the Kingdom of God upon the earth that free personal labor which is the common duty of all true Christians.

LAND DEPARTMENT
OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, [illegible]

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the [illegible] nate sections of the public l[illegible] bers within a distance of thi[illegible] railroad, excepting lands to [illegible] homestead claim had attached p[illegible] by Government of the lands co[illegible] the first division of located line from East Po[illegible] to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract [illegible] section can purchase the same from the [illegible] Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre [illegible], and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect. I. R. MOORES,

Appeal to the Catholic Bishops.

BY FATHER HYACINTHE.

A friend sends us the following with this statement: "The enclosed letter of Hyacinthe is one of the significant 'signs of the times,' and I hope you will find space to publish it at an early day." We therefore give it a place in our columns; but it is not within our scope to express any opinion or enter into any discussion upon the matters to which it relates:

ROME, ABSENT IN BODY, PRESENT IN SPIRIT:
Christmas, 1870.

When war broke out, like that thunderbolt which burst over the Vatican at the promulgation of the impious dogma, I hastened to write a brief protest. This duty fulfilled, I kept silence. I waited to see the sweeping off, as the chaff which the wind driveth away, of those two absolutisms which, sometimes in mutual language, sometimes in hostility, had so grievously oppressed both the Church and the world—the Empire of the Napoleons and the temporal power of the Popes. The abettors of the infallibility movement have not understood this religious silence to which so many souls have restrained themselves, and which they above all others ought to have maintained; pursuing that audacious policy which with one stroke has accomplished both their triumph and ruin, they busy themselves with noisy calculations upon the more or less prudent reserve of some, the more or less constrained adherence of others. Such a misunderstanding cannot longer be kept up; it would be wrong not to oppose what would otherwise result in establishing falsehood by prescriptive right.

The political catastrophe, which, especially for Frenchmen, seemed at first to reason for silence, becomes, if truly apprehended, an urgent motive for speaking and acting. I do not hesitate to say it, the question which at this very moment takes precedence of all others in France is the religious question. France cannot do without Christianity; and yet she cannot accept Christianity under the forms of oppression and corruption with which it has been disguised. Therefore it is that she, even more than the Latin races in general has been forced to live without religion and consequently without moral power, between Ultramontanism and Infidelity, two foes of which she has taken but too slight account, and against whom she had need to fight not less, certainly, than against those who have invaded nothing but her soil.

Suffer me, then, in presence of the woes of my country and the woes of my Church, to address the Catholic Bishops of the whole world, and especially those of them who look upon the situation as I do myself, and who to my own knowledge, are not few. Who am I that I should speak to them so boldly? But the illustrious Gerson has not hesitated to declare that in times of crisis the humblest woman has the right to convoke the Œcumenical Council and save the Church Universal. I assume the right; I perform this duty; I conjure the bishops to put an end to that latent schism which is separating us by abysms the depth of which is more fearful as it is more unperceived.

Above all, we need to be told by them whether the decrees of the late Council are to command our faith or no. In an assembly, the primary conditions of which are absolute liberty of discussion and moral unanimity of suffrage, bishops, respectable by reason of their number, and by their eminence in learning and in character, openly and repeatedly complained of all manner of restrictions put upon their liberty, and finally refused to take part in the vote. Is it possible that returning to their dioceses, and waking as it were from a long dream, they have acquired the retrospective certainty of having really enjoyed, while at Rome, that moral independence of which they were not conscious at the time? The supposition is an insult. We are not dealing here with one of those mysteries that are above man's reason; but simply with a fact of consciousness. To change one's mind in a matter of this sort would not be to submit one's reason to authority; it would be to sacrifice one's conscience.

Now, if this be so, we are still free, after, as before the Council, to reject the infallibility of the Pope, as a doctrine unknown to ecclesiastical antiquity, and having its foundations only in apocryphal documents, upon which criticism has pronounced beyond all appeal.

We are still free to say, openly, loyally, that we do not accept the late Encyclicals and the Syllabus, which their most intelligent defenders are constrained to interpret in opposition to their natural meaning, and to the known intent of their author, and the result of which, if this were to be taken in earnest would be to produce a settled radical incompatibility between the duties of a faithful Catholic and those of an impartial scholar and a free citizen.

Such are the most salient points at which the schism has been affected. It is the right of every Catholic who cares for the integrity and the dignity of his faith, of every priest who has at heart the loyalty of his ministry, to interrogate the bishops on these points; and it is their duty to answer without reservation and without artifice. Reservation and artifice—these have been our ruin. It is high time to restore in our Church the ancient sincerity in religion which has so decayed amongst us.

But, mark it well, the facts and doctrines which I have pointed out are connected with a great system, and to reach the details, the remedy must penetrate the whole. The question is aggravated by the very excesses of the Ultramontanes, and from this time forth the issue is to be this: whether or not the nineteenth century is to have its Catholic Reformation, as the sixteenth had its Protestant Reformation?

Look, O bishops, upon the bride of Jesus Christ, whom you also have espoused, the Holy Church, pierced, like him, with five wounds.

The first, the wound in the right hand—the hand which holds the light, is the hiding of the Word of God. That sacred volume, [illegible] over the world to enlighten and to [illegible] is [illegible] shut up again in the [illegible], and under the [illegible] the [illegible]. The bread [illegible] and [illegible] which God had prepared [illegible] poor as for the wise and [illegible] taken from them? [illegible] to allege, for a pretext, the abuses [illegible] and unbelief. Put the Bible in its [illegible] relation with science, by an intelligent exegesis, and they will have nothing to fear from each other. Put it in its true relation with the people, by a religious education worthy of itself and of them, and the Bible will become the safest guide of the people's life, the healthiest inspiration of their worship.

The wound in the other hand is the oppression of intellect and conscience by the abuse of hierarchal power. Of a truth, Jesus Christ said to his apostles: "Go, teach all nations;" but he said also to them: "The princes of the world exercise dominion over them, but it shall not be so among you!" Successors of the apostles, make haste to unbind from our shoulders that burden which we nor our fathers have been able to bear, and restore that light and easy yoke to which we are invited by the love of the Redeemer.

And what shall I say of the spear wound in the heart? I must call it by its name, for they who suffer most from it are those who shrink most from speaking of it—it is celibacy, the more pleasing to God as it is free and joyous, like the love that inspires it—the portion of a few souls called to it and sustained in it by an exceptional grace. But when it is extended indiscriminately over natures the most unlike and the most unfit, when it is imposed as an irrevocable oath upon their inexperience and enthusiasm, celibacy becomes an institution without mercy, and too often without morality. The nations who look upon it as the exclusive ideal of perfection throw contempt upon the sanctity of the wedded life, and, debasing the family in comparison with the cloister, they reduce it to a mere refuge for vulgar or, at best, for earthly souls. The domestic hearth becomes no longer an altar!

But the last wounds of the Church, that cripple her feet when she would rest upon the earth, are these: Worldly policy and superstitious piety. A policy the Church must have, for it stands in necessary relations with the powers of this world; but that policy is most completely expressed in the words of the Master: "I, if I be lifted up above the earth, will draw all men unto me." Is this that policy of the temporal power and the secular arm which makes the possession of some provinces in Italy and some privileges in Europe the essential condition of the empire of souls, the pivot of the whole spiritual structure? A policy as fatal to the Church and the world as the revolution which it subserves even while it is contesting it. A policy the impotent, blind persistency in which it is now desired to exalt to the dignity of a dogma! On the other hand, there is no lack of spiritual force in modern Catholicism. It counts its devout souls by myriads; it sees the noblest works and virtues flourishing within its pale. Why is this piety so touching and so genuine, too often handed over to the seductions of a mysticism without depth, and an asceticism without austerity—so different from those that shed grandeur on the early Christian centuries? External practices—material practices, I had almost said—are multiplied without limit; the adoration of the saints, especially of the Holy Virgin are developed in proportions and under a character which are alien to genuine Catholic feeling; and that worship of the Father in spirit and in truth, which Jesus made the soul of his religion, is sensibly diminishing amongst us.

Such is the body of Christ, in the state to which our sins have brought it on the earth—sins of the priests, as much and more than those of the people. O, bishops, will you have no pity on it? Will you not give it some efficacious remedy? "Is there no balm in Gilead? Is there no physician there?"

I pause. My heart is so burdened that I cannot go on. I know not what shall become of my poor words amid the shock of empires and the voice of blood going up from fields of carnage. But I know this; that if it be not strong enough to speed the accomplishment of God's designs, it is faithful to declare them.

And this, too, I know: that I do not separate myself from the holy Catholic faith, nor from the Church of my baptism and priesthood. If her venerated chiefs shall heed my humble appeal, I shall resume at once, in obedience and in honor and loyalty, a ministry which has been the sole passion of my youth, the sole ambition of my life, and which nothing but my conscience could have forced me painfully to relinquish. If, on the contrary, they answer me only by their reprobation or their silence, I shall not suffer this to disturb me in my love for a Church that is greater than those who govern it, stronger than those who defend it. Holding fast by the heritage left me by my fathers, and not to be rent from me by unjust and, therefore, invalid excommunications, I will give to the preparation of the Kingdom of God upon the earth that free personal labor which is the common duty of all true Christians.

LAND DEPARTMENT

OREGON & CALIFORNIA RAILROAD COMPANY.

SALEM, OREGON, October 22, 1870.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT IS MADE FOR information of all concerned:

First—Congress has granted to the Company all alternate sections of the public lands designated by odd-numbers within a distance of thirty miles on each side of the railroad, excepting lands to which a pre-emption or homestead claim had attached prior to the withdrawal by Government of the lands co-terminus with the first division of located line from East Portland to Jefferson, at 12 M. February 16, 1870. The second division of located line from Jefferson to a point six miles south of Roseburg, May, 1870, and from the last named point to the California line, 1870.

Second—Persons who have valid pre-emption or homestead claims to any tract on an odd numbered section can purchase the same from the Railroad Company at the Government price of $1 25 per acre in greenbacks, and upon very favorable terms, if they so desire, by filing an abandonment of their claim in the U. S. Land Office, blanks for which will be furnished by the Land Agent of the Company. Such purchase from the Company has these advantages over a purchase from the Government: The party can leave the land if necessary; he can sell the land or mortgage it; he is saved the payment of lawyers' or agents' fees, and expenses of witnesses to go to the Land Office to "prove up" his claim; he can get his title perfect in less time, and he can buy on credit at a low rate of interest.

Third—No sales will be made by the Company until the land is listed over to it by the United States Land Commissioner and Secretary of the Interior.

Purchasers are thus assured that the title they obtain is perfect.
